Re: Proposal for Creative Project

Dear Mr. Joyce:

I am a retired scientist and Katrina evacuee from New Orleans now living in Shreveport, and I have given considerable thought to issues of atmospheric pollution and climate change. The attached proposal for an animated Moonbot project is a product of these concerns. Please consider it as a modest contribution toward battling the toxic emissions of coal-fired furnaces and substituting a self-sustaining, renewable means of energy production that involves the planting of trees.

Further information is available from my amateur video at <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-R0v7u1k8L4> and, particularly, my website, <http://www.tallowfuel.com>.

In the event that you choose to adopt this project, please be assured that I do not expect to be compensated.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely yours,

Carl Bernofsky

The Adventures of Tammy Tallow Tree

Tammy Tallow Tree is an animated character determined to rid the world of unnecessary greenhouse gasses by using her power of photosynthesis to capture the energy of the sun and convert it into energy-rich pellets (seeds) which she produces in abundance and are readily harvested by her Energy Assistants.

Her message is that she is forever replicating her kind for the benefit of society, and self-repairing her own energy-capturing and storage mechanisms. Tammy's mantra is that she consumes carbon dioxide and uses the sun's energy to convert it into energy pellets which then return the carbon dioxide to the atmosphere to be recycled once the pellets are burned to release the energy that is used to generate electricity for the people who share her planet.

Her rival and arch-enemy is the evil Mr. Coal, who promises to provide wealth and power to his Masters (coal corporations), and who hides the fact that despite the easy money he makes for them, the poisons that he releases gradually accumulate and make the world an unhealthy place in which to live.

Mr. Coal resents Tammy Tallow Tree's powers and spreads false rumors that she is trying to take over the plant world. But to combat that falsehood, Tammy promises her Keepers (the arborists) that she will be of service to the world and obey their rule to not spread beyond the orchard boundaries set for her and her offspring.

Addendum: Don't forget the Oxygen that is also produced in abundance to serve mankind!
